

Sentence Completion Exercises

Asking students these or similar questions, and requiring them to write down their answers, can be a productive way to begin discussion.

What struck me most about the text we read to prepare for the discussion today is...

The question I'd most like to ask the author of today's text is...

The idea I most take issue within the text is...

The part of the text that made the most sense to me was...

The part of the text I felt was most confusing was...